Some things you need to know if you are selected to participate:

- A pass will be given to you for the day(s) you participate. If the participant is under the age of 18 two passes will be provided.
- You are required to stall your horse while at the expo. Because of the limited parking and general congestion and activity and weather concerns we are firm on this.
- There will be a $65 fee to participate – this covers your stall and bedding and event pass(s). You will be expected to send payment upon confirmation of selection. If you are part of a breed demo this fee does not apply.
- Arrival and departure times are restricted – again primarily due to congestion and parking. Those details and times will be confirmed with you if you are selected.
- Selections will not be made until early to mid-February. You will be notified either way of the decision made.

Please keep in mind the expo is a very different setting from regular horse shows. The environment is more active, the crowds can be unsettling and warm-up time is very limited. Please keep in mind when applying to participate, your horse should be able to be stalled at the minimum for a day and should not only fill the needs outlined, but be able to handle the environment and not create additional challenges in the clinic because they cannot handle the environment.
